The Development and Unraveling of a Ponzi Scheme: A Conversation with Travis Correll

This year's keynote presentation will be a unique look at the case history of an actual Ponzi scheme featuring the fraudster, SEC enforcement counsel, the receiver, and receiver's counsel. In an open, "fireside chat" format, the SEC's Marshall Gandy joins NAFER President Greg Hays and Troutman Sanders Managing Partner David Dantzler as they discuss with convicted Ponzi scheme perpetrator Travis Correll the development – and eventual unraveling – of Mr. Correll's $100M Ponzi scheme.

In 2008, Travis Correll was sentenced to 12 years in federal prison for running a $100 million Ponzi scheme that collapsed in 2005. He was 31 years of age. The case, SEC v. Travis E. Correll, et. al, was filed in the Eastern District of Texas; Marshall Gandy was the SEC enforcement attorney on this case. Mr. Gandy is now Senior Officer and Associate Regional Director of the Ft. Worth Texas office of the SEC. Greg Hays, NAFER President, was the court-appointed receiver, and David Dantzler, Managing Partner, New York Office of Troutman Sanders was lead counsel to the receiver.

Mr. Correll served his time and now speaks openly about how the case developed, the scheme's ultimate downfall and his ensuing conviction. This will, no doubt, be an interesting inside look at how one Ponzi scheme developed and unraveled.
